

Candidate for election does not want to engage with the public?

Posted by Newsline - 27 Apr 2017 15:10

Savio Andrew D'Souza who is standing as an independent for the Giffnock and Thornliebank ward posted this today on a East Ren social media site.

Not his site but he did not wish any suggestions put forward to assist the campaign to save Eastwood Swimming Pool.

Savio is what could be described as a character, who likes to dress up and 'do a Montague'.

He was the chair of Giffnock community council until apparently they dispensed with his services.

He was also allegedly the 'project manager' of the ENNA allotments and thought to have been paid the sum of £5000 for a project that appears flawed. (see other threads)

Self appointed organiser of a proposed memorial regarding the police helicopter accident at Eastwood Toll, which was surrounded in alleged controversy and did not take place. (see other threads)

Now he has decided to stand as an independent in the local elections.

However he has been asked questions on the facebook page where he has been professing his support, only to ignore the questions and now appears to wish to subdue debate.

Perhaps given that kind of rhetoric he would make a good candidate for East Renfrewshire Council.
